

The Harbor Consulting Group

Serving people and organizations to reach their potential

Brian Lenderink Leadership Coach

Brian Lenderink is a leadership coach for the Harbor Consulting Group. He brings over 20 years of experience in personnel, project, and organizational leadership to this position.

Brian has a passion for systems thinking, constant improvement, and winning with people. His servant leadership philosophy is guided by responsibilities he learned as a U.S. Marine: 1) accomplish the mission, and 2) meet the needs of your people. By developing leaders, building teams, and guiding process improvement and strategic planning efforts, he helps his clients foster environments where well-led, actively engaged people drive organizational success.

He conducts strategic planning efforts that translate strategy to operational terms, align the organization to the strategy, and create strategic awareness throughout the organization. Strategic planning and execution can then become catalysts for developing people, mobilizing change, and driving systems focused approaches to improvement (i.e., Lean, TQM, etc...).

Brian's leadership experience spans the public and private sector. As a Marine, his teams championed the adoption and use of new technology. Later, his process improvement, organizational development, and operations efforts helped bring exponential growth and maturity to manufacturing companies and those servicing major government and pharmaceutical clients.

Brian holds a B.A. in business economics from Northwestern College, a four-year liberal arts college in Orange City, Iowa. He is a member of the Project Management Institute and is pursuing his MBA. He is also actively involved in his community, serving as a volunteer in several organizations.
